

Monitor your website with WatchMouse

Dashboard widget WatchMouse Site Monitor checks up on the website of your choice every 1, 5, 15, 30, or 60 minutes to keep track of its uptime. But wait, there's more:

- Checks your website from 17 monitoring stations worldwide in case of an error.
- Warns you immediately or after 2 to 5 consecutive errors.
- Pauses when your own computer is not connected to the Internet.
- Shows the hourly availability of your website over the last 72 hours.

WatchMouse can help you keep track of your personal or company website so that you can get on the horn to tech support as soon as there appears to be a problem.

Send an email to Adam Pash, the author of this post, at tips+adam@lifehacker.com.